

The Two Mice
by Mary Ann Hoberman

I see a mouse.

We see two mice.
What shall we do?

I see one, too!

Let's give them names.

What shall they be?

Pipe and Peep?

He and She?

Dot and Dash?

Squeal and Squeak?

To and Fro?

Hide and Seek?

Two mice are nice.

Two mice are fun.

They're twice as nice

As only one.

And when we read,

It's just the same.

Two readers reading

Make a game.

It's twice as nice

When there are two.

You read to me.
I'll read to you.
